This may come as a perspective, but there is decay in the system that was meant to serve a holistic purpose of sustained regeneration with advancements. Although advancements were not supposed to lead us to this question. The advancements serve in distributions, and these distributions are controlled by buyouts or by generating future advancements for future buyouts. Are you for sale?

And if you are, what are you trading yourself for?